

REOPPOSE

Meaning: Reoppose: to oppose something again or anew, especially after having previously supported it.

1. The community decided to reoppose the development project after new environmental concerns emerged.
2. In a surprising turn of events, the council voted to reoppose the previous legislation they had once supported.
3. Activists plan to reoppose the proposed changes to the education policy during the next public meeting.
4. After hearing from constituents, the senator chose to reoppose the bill that had initially garnered her backing.
5. Voters were encouraged to reoppose the measure that threatened to cut essential public services.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/reoppose>