

RETRACT

Meaning: To retract means to withdraw or take back a statement or opinion previously made.

1. The author decided to retract her previous statement after realizing it was misleading.
2. After much consideration, the politician chose to retract his controversial remarks.
3. The company issued a public notice to retract the faulty product from the market.
4. He felt compelled to retract his criticism once he learned the full context of the situation.
5. The university's administration moved quickly to retract the false allegations made against the professor.
6. The politician was forced to retract his controversial statement after public backlash.
7. She decided to retract her offer once she realized the implications it carried.
8. After realizing the error in his calculations, he had to retract his previous conclusions.
9. The author issued a formal request to retract the misleading article from the magazine.
10. In light of new evidence, the scientist chose to retract the findings of her previous research.
11. The author decided to retract his controversial statement after receiving backlash from the public.
12. She was forced to retract her claim when new evidence emerged that contradicted her initial findings.
13. The company had to retract the faulty product from the market to ensure customer safety.
14. After realizing the mistake, he promptly sent out a retraction to clarify his previous remarks.
15. The politician issued a formal retraction of his earlier speech, acknowledging that it contained inaccuracies.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/retract>