

SALUTATORY

Meaning: 'SALUTATORY' refers to expressing or conveying a greeting or welcome, particularly in a formal address or speech.

1. The speaker's salutatory remarks set a positive tone for the entire event.
2. In her salutatory address, she welcomed the new students with warmth and enthusiasm.
3. The committee prepared a salutatory speech to honor the retiring principal's dedication.
4. His salutatory gesture of offering a handshake was appreciated by everyone in the room.
5. During the ceremony, the salutatory message emphasized the importance of community and collaboration.
6. The salutatory speech was met with enthusiastic applause from the audience.
7. In his salutatory address, the president emphasized the importance of unity and collaboration.
8. The professor delivered a warm and engaging salutatory that set a positive tone for the semester.
9. At the graduation ceremony, each valedictorian prepared a unique salutatory to inspire their classmates.
10. The event started with a brief salutatory that welcomed all the guests and participants.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/salutatory>