

SINECURIST

Meaning: A sinecurist is a person who holds a position requiring little or no work but provides financial benefit or status.

1. The sinecurist enjoyed a comfortable lifestyle while contributing little to the organization.
2. Despite the responsibilities of his title, he was essentially a sinecurist, reaping the benefits without much effort.
3. Many viewed him as a sinecurist, more focused on socializing than fulfilling his official duties.
4. In a world full of hard workers, the sinecurist stood out for his apparent lack of engagement.
5. Her position was often criticized as sinecurist, as it seemed more ceremonial than functional.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/sinecurist>