

SPOOK

Meaning: SPOOK (verb): to frighten or startle someone, often unexpectedly.

1. The sudden noise from the attic spooked the children, making them hesitate at the top of the stairs.
2. Her eerie story about the haunted house was enough to spook even the bravest among us.
3. As the lights flickered, a chill ran down his spine, spooking him more than he cared to admit.
4. The unexpected appearance of the old ghost story character in the film managed to spook the entire audience.
5. Feeling a cold breeze in the empty room was enough to spook her into checking for anything unusual.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/spook>