STIFLE

Meaning: To stifle means to suppress or inhibit something, such as creativity or innovation, often leading to a lack of expression or development.

1. Her criticism seemed to stifle his creativity, making him hesitant to share his ideas.
2. The new regulations may stifle innovation within the industry, hindering growth.
3. Fear of failure can stifle one's ambition, preventing them from pursuing their dreams.
4. The oppressive heat in the room began to stifle their ability to concentrate on the task at hand.
5. He felt that societal expectations could stifle individuality and self-expression.
6. The intense heat of the summer sun seemed to stifle any hope of enjoying the outdoors.
7. Her strict upbringing threatened to stifle her creativity and free spirit.
8. He felt that the constant pressure to conform would stifle his individuality.
9. The new regulations were designed to stifle any competition in the market.
10. In an effort to stifle dissent, the government imposed heavy restrictions on the press.
11. The oppressive heat seemed to stifle any chance of outdoor activities.
12. Her creativity began to stifle under the weight of constant criticism.
13. The strict regulations can stifle innovation in the tech industry.
14. He struggled to stifle his laughter during the serious meeting.
15. Fear of failure can stifle even the most talented individuals from pursuing their dreams.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/stifle