

SUBCONFORMABLE

Meaning: Subconformable refers to geological layers that are deposited with a noticeable interruption or pause in sedimentation, indicating a complex history of environmental changes.

1. The geological formations in this region are considered unconformable, suggesting a complex history of sedimentation.
2. In the study of stratigraphy, unconformable layers indicate a pause in deposition, revealing important environmental changes.
3. The paleontologist noted that the fossils were found in unconformable deposits, hinting at a significant temporal gap.
4. Geologists often debate the implications of unconformable relationships in understanding Earth's geological timeline.
5. The presence of unconformable surfaces can complicate interpretations of tectonic activity in the area.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/subconformable>