

SUBSTANTIALITY

Meaning: Substantiality refers to the quality of being significant, considerable, or having a solid basis, particularly in relation to evidence or findings.

1. The substantiality of the evidence presented during the trial played a crucial role in the jury's decision.
2. Researchers debated the substantiality of the findings, questioning whether they could be replicated in different contexts.
3. His argument lacked substantiality, failing to convince the audience of its validity.
4. The substantiality of the investment attracted many potential investors to the startup.
5. In assessing the substantiality of a claim, one must consider the context and the supporting facts.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/substantiality>