

TALLYHO

Meaning: Tallyho is an exclamation used to announce the sighting of a fox or to encourage hounds during a hunt.

1. Tallyho! The fox has just broken cover and is making a dash across the field.
2. With a loud cry of "tallyho," the hounds surged forward in pursuit of the scent.
3. As the hunt began, the riders shouted tallyho, signaling the start of the chase.
4. The thrill of the chase was palpable as the enthusiastic huntsman called out tallyho.
5. In the excitement of the hunt, he shouted tallyho, urging his horse to gallop faster.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/tallyho>