

TAUTOLOGIC

Meaning: Tautologic refers to a statement or argument that is redundant or circular, providing no new information or insights.

1. The argument presented was criticized for being tautologic, offering no new insights.
2. In his lecture, he explained the tautologic nature of certain philosophical statements that repeat themselves.
3. Using tautologic phrases can make writing seem redundant and unnecessarily complex.
4. The professor warned against tautologic reasoning, emphasizing the importance of clear and concise logic.
5. Many students struggle with recognizing tautologic statements in their essays, leading to repetitive arguments.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/tautologic>