

TIMESERVING

Meaning: Timeserving refers to a self-serving behavior characterized by prioritizing personal gain or popular opinion over integrity or principles.

1. His timeserving attitude became evident when he consistently prioritized personal gain over the team's success.
2. The politician was criticized for his timeserving behavior, always catering to the latest popular opinion instead of standing by his principles.
3. In a competitive workplace, timeserving employees often undermine morale by seeking shortcuts to success rather than putting in genuine effort.
4. She realized that her timeserving habits were holding her back from achieving her true potential in her career.
5. The coach warned the players that timeserving on the field would not be tolerated if they wanted to win the championship.
6. His timeserving attitude in the office earned him the disdain of his colleagues.
7. Though he was skilled, his timeserving behavior ultimately undermined his credibility.
8. The politician's timeserving remarks during the campaign revealed his true lack of conviction.
9. She grew tired of the timeserving tactics employed by her teammates to gain favor with the coach.
10. In a world of genuine passion, timeserving individuals often struggle to find their place.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/timeserving>