

TRAMPLE

Meaning: To trample means to treat something with disregard or to crush it underfoot, often causing damage or violation.

1. The protesters felt their rights were being trampled by the new legislation.
2. In his haste to get to the front, he accidentally trampled on the delicate flowers.
3. The children were warned not to trample over the newly planted grass in the park.
4. She felt as though her dreams were being trampled under the weight of societal expectations.
5. The stampede caused many to trample each other in a desperate attempt to escape.
6. The children began to trample the flowers as they raced across the field.
7. He felt guilty for allowing his ambitions to trample over his friendships.
8. During the protest, some demonstrators trampled on the signs of opposing groups.
9. The heavy machinery continued to trample the delicate landscape without considering the environment.
10. She warned him not to trample on her dreams with his harsh criticism.
11. The children accidentally trample the flowers while running through the garden.
12. With each step, he seemed to trample over the hopes of those who believed in him.
13. The heavy machinery will trample the delicate soil, making it hard for plants to grow.
14. Protesters marched through the streets, determined not to let anyone trample their rights.
15. In their haste to reach the finish line, they trampled the carefully laid out path.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/trample>