TRANSPIRE

Meaning: TRANSPIRE: to occur or happen, particularly in a way that becomes known or revealed over time.

1. It was hard to believe what had transpired during the meeting.
2. As the days went by, it became clear that something significant would soon transpire.
3. She couldn't help but wonder what secrets might transpire behind closed doors.
4. The events that transpired that night changed the community forever.
5. In the end, all the drama and tension led to a series of unexpected outcomes that transpired.
6. It is difficult to predict what will transpire during the conference.
7. As the investigation unfolded, shocking details began to transpire.
8. What transpired between them that day changed their relationship forever.
9. The results of the experiment will transpire over the next few weeks.
10. During the meeting, several important decisions transpired that will affect the future of the project.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/transpire