

TRICROTIC

Meaning: Tricrotic refers to a type of pulse waveform characterized by three distinct beats or oscillations, often indicating cardiovascular abnormalities.

1. The term 'tricrotic' is often used in medical contexts to describe a specific type of pulse waveform.
2. In certain patients, the presence of a tricrotic pulse may indicate underlying cardiovascular abnormalities.
3. The physician noted a tricrotic pattern on the monitor, prompting further investigation into the patient's condition.
4. Understanding the characteristics of a tricrotic pulse can aid clinicians in diagnosing complex heart issues.
5. The research paper outlined how a tricrotic waveform differs from normal and biphasic pulse patterns.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/tricrotic>