

TRUGGING-HOUSE

Meaning: A trugging-house is a quaint, often rustic dwelling that serves as a communal space for creativity and social interaction, typically characterized by its weathered appearance.

1. The trugging-house stood at the end of the winding road, its weathered facade telling stories of years gone by.
2. In the heart of the village, the trugging-house became a gathering place for artists and craftsmen seeking inspiration.
3. As the sun set, the glow from the trugging-house windows created a warm and inviting atmosphere for passersby.
4. Visitors often marveled at the unique architecture of the trugging-house, which blended traditional and modern design elements.
5. Inside the trugging-house, the scent of freshly baked bread wafted through the air, enticing everyone who approached.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/trugging-house>