

UNCORD

Meaning: Uncord (verb): To remove or release from a cord or binding; to untie or disentangle.

1. The two sides managed to uncord their differences and come to a mutual agreement.
2. As she carefully uncorded the tangled strings, she realized how much work lay ahead.
3. The artist decided to uncord the vibrant tapestries, allowing them to flow freely in the breeze.
4. In an effort to promote unity, the organization sought to uncord the divisions within the community.
5. He paused for a moment, unsure if he should uncord his emotions or keep them tightly wrapped.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/uncord>