

VAPULATION

Meaning: Vapulation is the process by which certain plant species release water vapor or moisture in response to environmental conditions.

1. The scientist's research focused on the vapulation process of certain plant species in extreme conditions.
2. Vapulation is a term rarely used in everyday conversation, yet it holds significance in specialized scientific literature.
3. Understanding vapulation can provide insights into how organisms adapt to fluctuating environmental factors.
4. During the experiment, the team observed the vapulation of water from the leaves, indicating a potential response to drought stress.
5. The concept of vapulation is crucial for ecologists studying water regulation in various ecosystems.

Source: sentences.whatistheurl.com

<https://sentences.whatistheurl.com/sentence/vapulation>